RKI Web-Based Training While Quarantined

As a result of the shelter-in-place, more and more people are currently working from home offices, including RKI's sales team. This makes for an ideal time to do some training, so why not let your local RKI Rep provide that training for you.

Each of RKI's Regional Sales Managers has the ability to offer independent webinar-based training. Custom training can be offered based on what your needs are. Our reps have already been giving these webinar trainings on topics like product features, markets to sell into, as well as product servicing and maintenance. Contact your RKI Regional Rep today and schedule a training for your team. It's a great use of time during this shelter-in-place.
